

My
Writing Targets
EYS1

 I can make marks and tell you what they mean.

 I can distinguish between different everyday sounds.

 I can distinguish between different speech sounds.

These are a selection of the targets children will be working on in their school work at this level. Please note that these are just a sample and there are a range of other skills we teach the children before we move them to the next stage.

• Talk for Writing •

I can listen to simple nursery rhymes and songs.

As the children progress through school they will gradually build up a bank of stories that they learn really well and off by heart. They will also learn a range of actions to help them remember the story and sequence, and even use these skills in nonfiction accounts too.

These are important skills that give children something to confidently say in their writing. As they become proficient at retelling they move on to inventing their own stories.

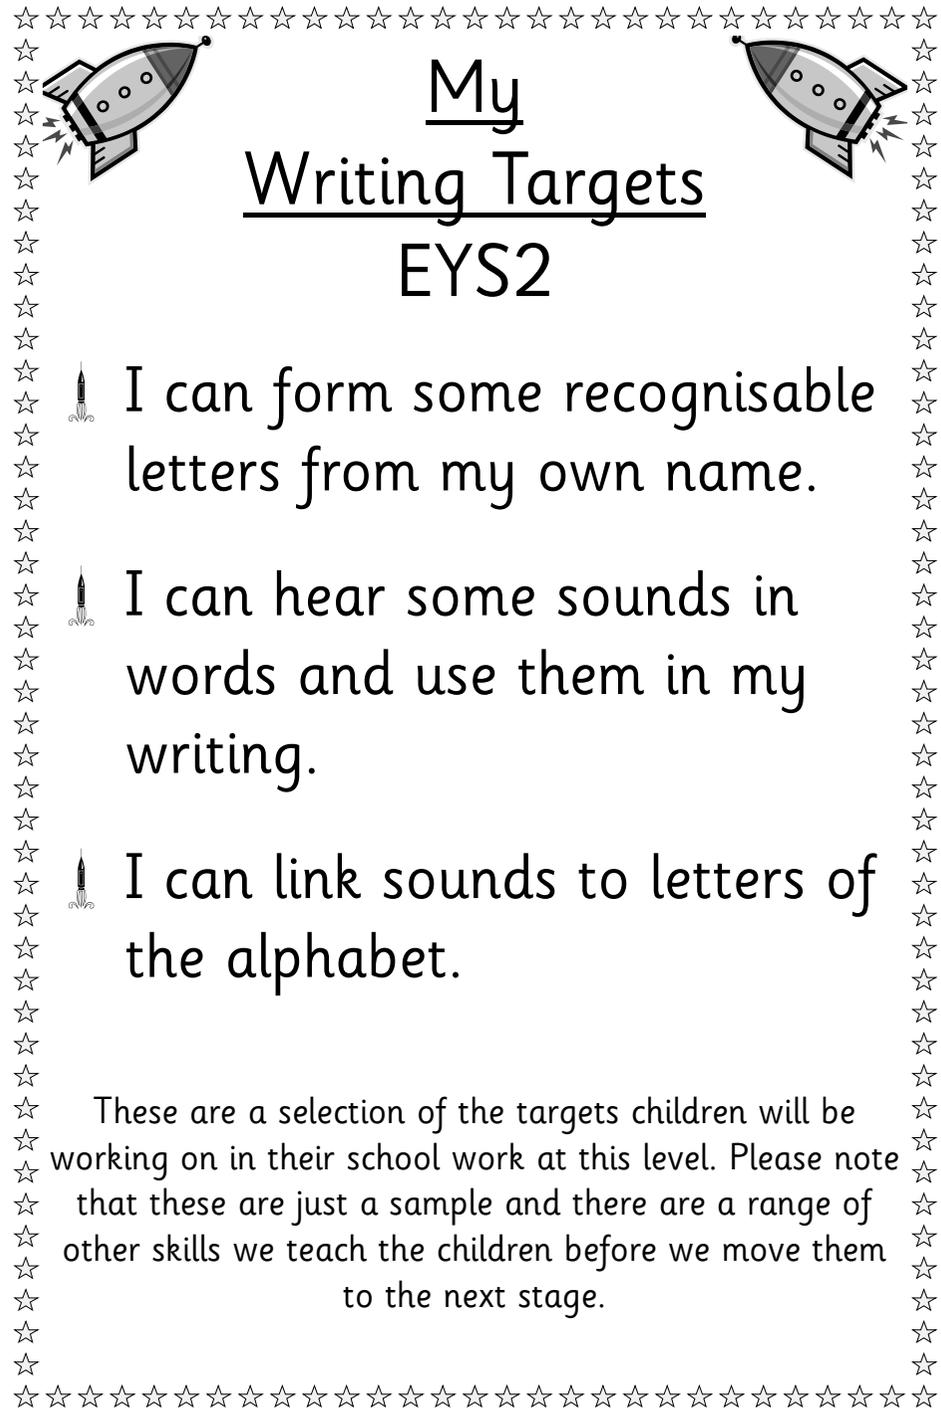

Talk for Writing

I can listen to simple nursery rhymes and songs.

As the children progress through school they will gradually build up a bank of stories that they learn really well and off by heart. They will also learn a range of actions to help them remember the story and sequence, and even use these skills in nonfiction accounts too.

These are important skills that give children something to confidently say in their writing. As they become proficient at retelling they move on to inventing their own stories.

My Writing Targets EYS2

I can form some recognisable letters from my own name.

I can hear some sounds in words and use them in my writing.

I can link sounds to letters of the alphabet.

These are a selection of the targets children will be working on in their school work at this level. Please note that these are just a sample and there are a range of other skills we teach the children before we move them to the next stage.

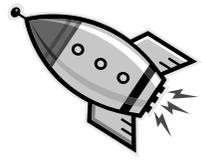

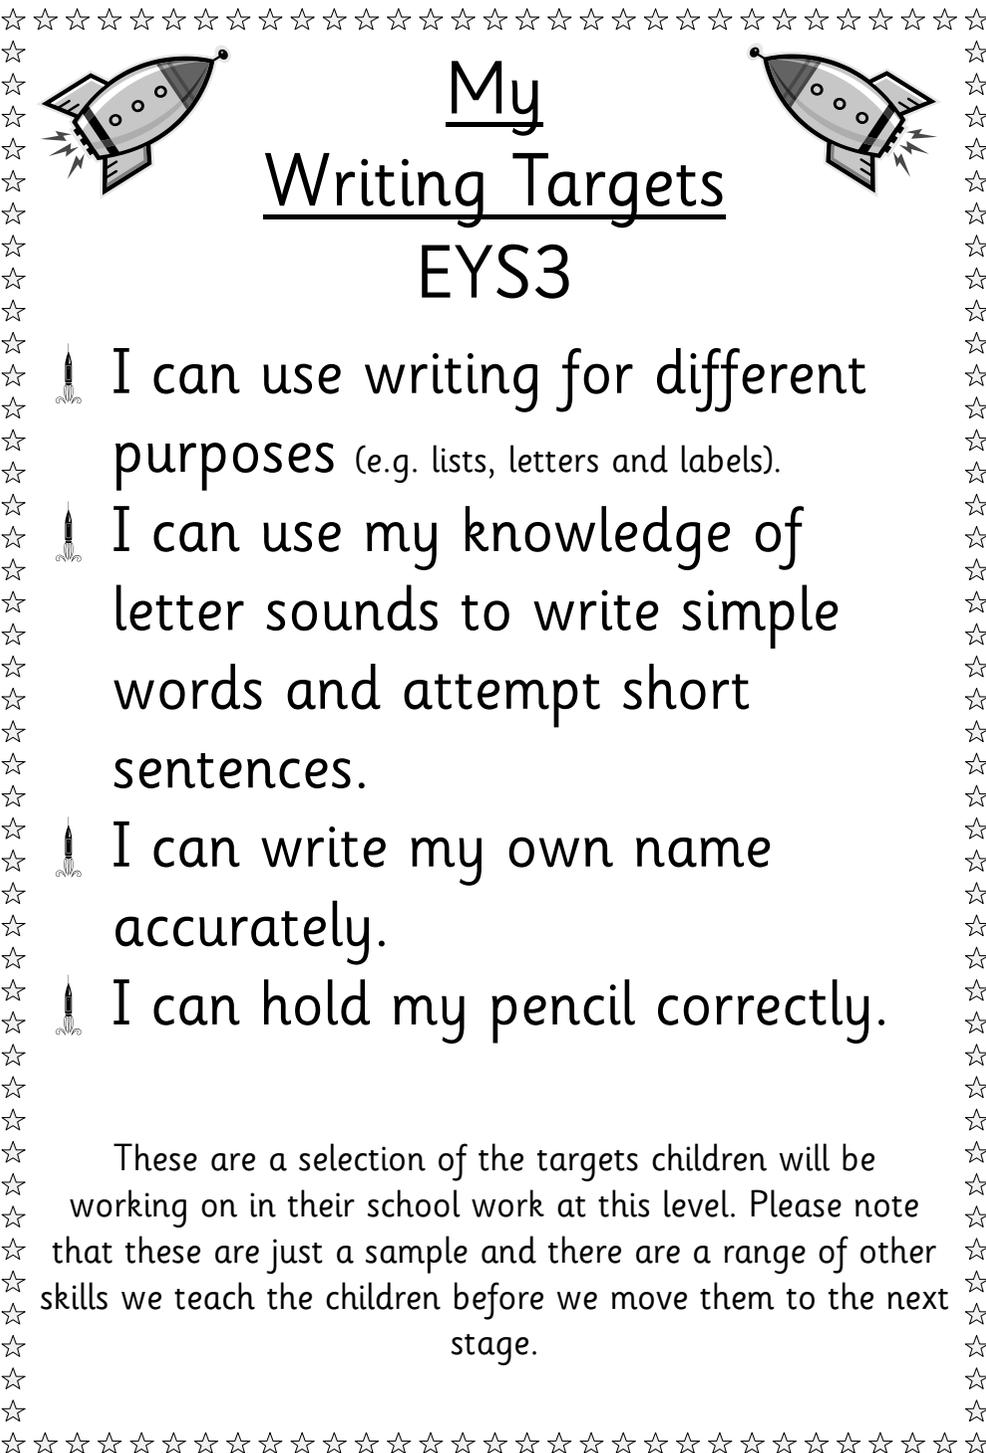

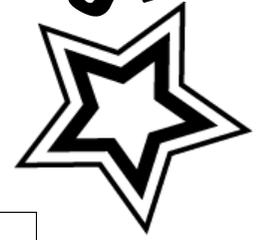

Talk for Writing

I can listen to simple nursery rhymes and songs.

As the children progress through school they will gradually build up a bank of stories that they learn really well and off by heart. They will also learn a range of actions to help them remember the story and sequence, and even use these skills in nonfiction accounts too.

These are important skills that give children something to confidently say in their writing. As they become proficient at retelling they move on to inventing their own stories.

My Writing Targets EYS3

I can use writing for different purposes (e.g. lists, letters and labels).

I can use my knowledge of letter sounds to write simple words and attempt short sentences.

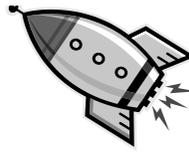

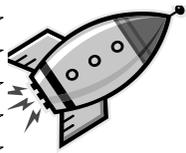

I can write my own name accurately.

I can hold my pencil correctly.

These are a selection of the targets children will be working on in their school work at this level. Please note that these are just a sample and there are a range of other skills we teach the children before we move them to the next stage.

My
Writing Targets
 EYS4

 I can write simple sentences and captions.

 I can use my knowledge of letters, sounds and words when writing independently.

 I can write some Buzz Words correctly in my writing.

 I can hold my pencil effectively to write recognisable letters, most of which are correctly formed.

These are a selection of the targets children will be working on in their school work at this level. Please note that these are just a sample and there are a range of other skills we teach the children before we move them to the next stage.

Talk for Writing

I can listen to simple nursery rhymes and songs.

As the children progress through school they will gradually build up a bank of stories that they learn really well and off by heart. They will also learn a range of actions to help them remember the story and sequence, and even use these skills in nonfiction accounts too.

These are important skills that give children something to confidently say in their writing. As they become proficient at retelling they move on to inventing their own stories.